With Excel's spreadsheet power and magic Word processing, a power duo will be created project. Even if a direct conversion method does not exist, if you need to convert from Excel to a Word document, there are a few ways you can do so. Instructions in this article apply to Excel with Word 2019, 2016, and Excel and Word for Microsoft 365. Additionally, while Excel does have an export option, there is no built-in way to export to Word from Excel. Instead, you need to use one of the methods described here to move data from an Excel document to a Word document. The first method is the simplest, and you're probably already aware of it there. You can easily convert your work from Excel to Word by copying and pasting. To start, open the Excel document you want to copy from. Open the Word document you are pasting. In the Excel document, select the content you want to copy. If you want the whole page, select the triangle icon in the upper left of your task. With the content selected, press Ctrl+C on your keyboard (Cmd+C for Mac users) to copy it. In Word document, place your cursor where you want to paste your workbook. Use Ctrl+V (Cmd+V for Mac users) to append. You can also use Copy and Paste to create a new table in Word. Simply create a Word table, select the data in Excel and then copy it directly to the new table you have created. Unlike the copying and paste, set Excel as an object inserts a miniature version of your Excel document in Word, fill with multiple sheets and other features. With Excel and Word open, continue in the following steps to start converting. In Word, select Insert from the ribbon. Select the Insert tab and select the Object icon in the toolbar. Select Text from File in the dialog box and find your Excel file. Want your object to automatically update if you change the Excel spreadsheet? Select Options &gt; Link to File. Select Insert at the bottom right corner of the dialog box to insert the content. In Word, select Insert &gt; Object &gt; Object. Select the Create from File tab &gt; Browse. Find the file you want to insert. Select Insert. If you want to link it to a file, select the Link to File check box. Select OK. You can also use an online converter to convert Excel to Word. Find an online converter by doing a quick search online. Then upload your two separate documents and allow the converter to make the heavy lifting. When the process is complete, you can download your new document. By Ryan Collects the world of word processing and publishing desktop contains many different fonts. The symbol font uses the letters of the Greek alphabet instead of the more familiar letters of the Latin alphabet. Greek letters are useful if your document is about physical or advanced math, but symbols tend to be incomprehensible as a general font used. The Arial Font is one of the many more readable. You can easily convert between different fonts in word processing applications such as MS Word. Select the text that you want convert to Arial font. Click the Home tab, then the down-pointed triangle next to the drop-down menu that lists all fonts. You can also click the lower-right corner of the Font group to open a pop-up window. Scroll to the font list until you find Arial. Click on it. If you are in the pop-up window, click OK. Select the text that you want to convert to Arial font. Click Format and then Font. If you have the formatting toolbar turned on, you can click the down-pointed triangle next to the drop-down menu that lists all the fonts. Scroll to the font list until you find Arial. Click on it. If you are in the pop-up window, click OK. Last updated on October 12, 2020 Success of our era largely depends on the quality of our planning.
